

Still Time to Vote for Adventure Galley in the Rock the Space Contest

Written by Mike Bookey
Thursday, 26 August 2010 14:31

Adventure Galley , the Bend-rooted band I've blogged about and wrote this feature story about , is in the finals of the Toyota Music Rock the Space contest.

The band cruised its way out of the preliminary rounds and then made it into the finals, thanks to the success of their song "Addict" -- a track that showcases the big, almost orchestral sounds of the electro rock band.

Drummer Brock Grenfell, who's here in Bend for the summer before returning to Eugene to continue class at the U of O in a few weeks, stopped by the office today and said there are still a few more days to vote for Adventure Galley in the contest. So click here and head over to vote for the band -- all you need is a MySpace account.

If they win, the band will receive some $40,000 in prizes. So yeah, help these guys out!