

Styx Tonight at the Fair, For Real!

Written by Mike Bookey
Friday, 30 July 2010 09:48

The same river of classic rock that has brought us Steve Miller Band earlier this month continues to flow through Central Oregon, this time leading the big hair and big sounds of Styx into the Deschutes County Fair tonight for a free show (if you got a ticket from the Twins radio station and pay to enter the fair).

Styx, best known for their late 1970s, early 1980s string of hits, that included "Come Sail Away" and "Mr. Roboto," among others has been rocking steadily for the past two decades, following a couple of hiatuses. But you probably know that if you're reading this -- because you're a Styx fan, right?

Here's the band playing "Lady" -- which I'm guessing they're likely to whip out tonight.

[video:<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uR4if4ble1A> 480x385]